	LANGUAGE-QUALIFIED FLIGHT ATTENDANT
	United Airlines	February 2016- Present
	After a rigorous six-week training in Houston, TX and an extensive federal background check, became a flight attendant responsible for the safety of passengers and security of aircraft, all while delivering exceptional customer service to passengers. Being language-qualified propelled me to the market of Latin America, where I would speak with and develop rapport with business professionals in Spanish on a daily basis. This job requires of me that I be an excellent team player since one almost never works with the same crew more than once. Excellent communication skills, working well with customers and coworkers, and being extremely responsible are all skills that I've polished further under this job. During my short time in this employment, I've received multiple forwarded emails sent to my supervisor, praising my hard work ethic and ease to work with. Administrative work includes having to file reports with multiple agencies including the Federal Aviation Administration, when appropriate.
